Drilling for Oil at Eastend

The Imperial Oil Company have commenced operations on their leases south-west of Consul and teams are busy freight material. A derrick has been rushed up in three days and bunk houses and sheds all ready. In fact everything is ready for drilling, which will begin shortly.

The derrick is located on Sec. 26-1-27, W. 3rd, on a little flat in the Battle Creek valley. On the one side is plenty of lignite coal land, also splendid water. It is reported that the discovery was made through someone seeing a piece of only sandstone, and on examining it discovered that it was greasy and oil was slowly oozing through the ground.

At present the drill is located a few miles from the nearest town, Consul. — Standard, Shaunavon.

The C. N. is changing its schedule on June 27th and will from that date run a through train from Winnipeg to Calgary over this line and stopping only at the larger places. A new local service will be inaugurated Saskatoon to Alsaak, and Alsaak to Calgary.—News, Alsaak.

A number of pupils from the surrounding rural schools are undergoing their departmental school examinations at the Kitchener school.

1'56 Inches of Rain

Crop prospects were immensely improved by the rains of last week. Commencing about 9 p.m. on Wednesday evening, the rain continued to fall with but brief lapses until Friday evening. Altogether 1'56 inches of rain fell, according to our local meteorological reporter. While we had been informed by visitors that our crops were looking as good, and better in some instances than they were in other parts, our farmers were beginning to worry over the lack of rain. Now the whole community is jubilant for they feel as if a good crop is practically assured.

The Parable of the Ox

There is a parable that a certain man had an ox and an ass which he used to yoke together every day to plow. After many days the ox, being exceedingly lazy, made up its mind to strike for freedom on the following day. Accordingly the next day, as soon as the sun waxed warm the ox rolled over in the furrow with a huge sigh and refused to arise. The man unyoked them and put the ox back in the stall and plowed with the ass all day alone.

That evening the ox spoke to the ass over his fodder, and asked: "What did the man say?" "He said nothing," answered the ass. On the second day and on the third the ox did in like manner, and still the man said nothing.

On the evening of the fourth day after the ox had stood in stall all day he asked the ass at even, "Did the man say anything to-day?" "No," answered the ass, "but I noticed him to-night leaning over the fence talking to the butcher."

The teaching is, that things which are an unmitigated nuisance have few friends. Will somebody in town write a parable about the cow that runs over everybody else's garden?

EXTRA STEPS MEAN DOLLARS SAVED

Agricultural Industry Must be Encouraged Says Dr. Robertson

Dr. J. W. Robertson, C.M.G., has recently returned to Ottawa from a tour of the Dominion where he was sent by the government in order to place before the people of the country the present economic conditions and the great need there is for carefulness and economy.

Dr. Robertson, who speaks with authority, having but recently returned from overseas where he went to investigate after-war food problems, was recently interviewed in regard to his dominion-wide tour. He remarked that people were impatient of explanations of present conditions; what they wanted was an immediate remedy, but the consequences of four years of losses occasioned by the war and the destruction and waste could not be remedied in a twinkling. There was little use in looking for an immediate remedy for the present high cost of living owing to the fact that the world's production of foodstuffs was not nearly equal to the demand. There was great need for increased production before any decline in prices could be expected. Farmers would continue to receive high prices for their products for the next two years.

Dr. Robertson contended that world conditions would have to be taken into consideration when the broad question of food supplies was being considered, and the policies of the Dominion would have to be fixed at least the next two years with what was likely to happen to Canada's wheat crops. The allied governments had guaranteed minimum prices, the conclusion being that they wished to encourage in every possible way the industry of agriculture.

Speaking of the future, Dr. Robertson said he thought it would be a great mistake to economize in regard to education or agriculture on both these questions the government must spend generously and courageously, adding that "as to the individual as well as the nation there is only one safe course to follow, to work diligently with intelligence, to live economically and to waste nothing."

Regarding Canada's financial position, Dr. Robertson said that to enable the country to maintain its stable conditions of prosperity and to pay her debts, they must rely on the improvement of agriculture and the development of her natural resources and industries. Further, he said that, in order to hold her place in the world, the Dominion would have to be well informed, well trained and as well organized as others.

For Good Roads

How Good Roads in Rural Districts Reduce the Cost of Living

Anyone who has ever been bogged in a muddy country road, or had his wagon or car jolted ruinously over the hard granite gumbos will take with interest to the proceedings of the Canadian Good Roads Convention, which opened in Winnipeg, Tuesday, for the building and improvement of roads is the barometer of the social progress being made by communities, and the rapid development of western Canadian rural areas is shown by the ever increasing mileage of roads which is being brought under the provision of "Good Roads" organizations and the provincial governments. In Manitoba, despite various drawbacks, twice the amount of road work was done under the Good Roads Act in 1919 over that of 1918. The mileage of earth roads improved was over 141, and 143 miles of road were graded. The report of the Manitoba Good Roads Association for 1919 states that "the total mileage of roads authorized under the Good Roads Act to be improved since its inception is $509, at an estimated cost of $1,646,480, and the number of miles completed at an estimated cost of $769,223, making a grand total of $2,415,703. In addition to the foregoing, 1,781 miles of road have been improved and maintained by the drag, to which the government contributed $325 per mile. The provincial government has been the most important factor in this competition, under which were kept 764 miles of road."

While less interested in the technical side of roads the general public has a very real interest in the extension of good roads from social and economic considerations. There is a direct connection between the condition of rural roads and the cost of living. It has been said that in countries where good roads are the rule, the average cost of hauling per ton mile is 8 to 12 cents, whereas in Manitoba it is not a cent less than 25 cents per ton mile. This estimate was some years ago, but it throws a light on the connection between the condition of the roads and the cost of living, which would still be of interest.

From the social aspect roads have the most important bearing possible on the successful development of community life. The good road not only enables the farmer to dispose of his produce to the railway with the minimum expenditure of time and energy, but it enables the farming community to form into a unit with other communities and to make the life of the farmers and their wives and families considerably more monotonous than hitherto—Manitoba Free Press.

From Medicine Hat Gas

From November, 1918 to November, 1919, a total of 2,509,688 cubic feet of gas was consumed in the city of Medicine Hat, Alberta, of which 62,012,000 was utilized industrially and 1,874,680,000 in domestic consumption.

Europe and the Drink Question

Many European Countries are Edging Towards Prohibition

In an issue of the Evening Alberta, of Calgary, Alberta, appears an interview with W. E. Johnston, editor of the well-known temperance advocate gives his views on the prohibition question in Europe. In the course of his remarks he pointed out in part as follows: "I have just received a cable from the Republic of Estonia," he said, "saying that the people are shortly to have a national election on prohibition and the measure will probably carry."

"Finland is the first European country to go by vote of its parliament. Norway has voted for the prohibition of all liquors containing over 12 percent spirits. In other words, it is on a light wine and beer basis. Sweden, except in the large cities, is now dry as regards spirits. Denmark's magistrates have the power to refuse licenses for drinking places. As a result over 200 parishes are already dry. In Italy the French Anti-Alcohol League is active and 60 members of parliament are dry as to spirits. In Italy the parliament is now debating prohibition by announcing its purpose to introduce a bill to limit licensed drinking places."

"There are as yet, no very potent dry laws in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Greece, the Balkans or Poland. Russia is in a state of doubt. We do not know whether the Bolsheviks have kept the country dry or not. Scotland has a local option election set for the 26th of April. In the districts for the dry cause. There is no option election scheduled for Ireland, but my information is that 23 out of the 35 counties have already voted for the dry cause. For Ulster are out-and-out dry."

"In England there is no machinery for voting on the question of prohibition, but there is a growing prohibition movement."

The Original Clocks

Sand Glass Used in Rome Many Centuries Ago

Housewives in these days very commonly use sand glasses of the familiar hour-glass pattern for timing their work. They are employed for the same purpose in many restaurants and hotel kitchens.

The contrivance is, of course, quite ancient, dating back to the middle ages. In much later times, and not so very long ago, it was utilized for timing prayers and sermons. Even nowadays there is an occasional old-fashioned church that keeps a "prayer-clock" on the pulpit.

As one might imagine, such glasses were not beyond criticism in point of accuracy. Four of them were carefully tested recently by the writer. One, supposed to be an Egyptian, took sixteen minutes to run out, a serious error for the congregation if the sermon was dry. Another for one-quarter of an hour, required only 42 minutes. The remaining two were, respectively, underrun and over-run two minutes.

The sand glass, in European countries, replaced the yet more antiquated "time candle," which was marked off in sections of an hour. As a time-keeper, the candle is exceedingly accurate; it was so employed in Rome before Christ was born, and very likely by the Egyptians and Babylonians in much earlier days. Counting by length of candle was an old-fashioned custom in England.

An equivalent method of time-keeping is even now practiced by the Chinese, who employ, instead of a candle, a length of loss stick—the same thing that small boys use as "junk" for getting off fire-crackers. It is made of sawdust, mixed with a little glue and is rolled into a cylinder of a measured diameter. Such a stick two feet long, and marked for the hours, lasts half a day, being consumed slowly and steadily. Messengers in China, having but short periods to sleep, make sure of waking by placing a lighted piece of stick between their toes. The stick acts most effectively at the proper moment. Doubtless it was the first and original alarm clock.

Regina Fox Farm

A Regina black fox farm has established a record with 35 pups being born from 9 litters, one of which, having 8 pups, which is one above the previous record held by a black fox farm at Winnipeg. The manager of the farm claims that the pups are worth one thousand dollars.

Silos For Sunflowers

Sunflowers For Silage Prove to be Unqualified Success

A company has been formed, with headquarters at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, for the construction of silos. From the name of the company—the Sunflower Silage Company—it can be inferred that farmers in the district are greatly interested in this crop and it is believed that there will be a great impetus to the production of sunflowers in Saskatchewan of what is proving to be one of the most profitable crops known.

The Prince Albert district is among the first to put into practical use the results which have been learned from the experimental farms of western Canada and the United States with reference to the growing of sunflowers for ensilage purposes. The use of ensilage in the corn belt is well known and has without doubt contributed largely to the great prosperity and the high prices of land which exist today. The more northerly regions of Montana, Saskatchewan and Alberta have long felt the necessity for some cheap winter feed fodder, and it has been with this object in view that the experimental station at Beaumont, Montana, and the Canadian Pacific railway land department at Prince Albert, have been carrying on experiments and feeding tests with sunflower silage.

The growing of sunflowers for this purpose has proved an unqualified success, the yield of sunflowers greatly exceeding the tonnage of corn. In 1919 a Saskatchewan farmer, growing a Siratmore, made a growth of fourteen feet and yielded 34.6 tons of the acre, in comparison with 14 tons of corn, and 7 tons of peas and oats all grown under the same conditions. Reports from Montana give yields with an average of 20 tons per acre. Last winter at Scott, Sask., the ration showed a profit of about $10 per head more than those fed under the same conditions without sunflower silage.

In the Prince Albert district a number of farmers during the thirty years of their married life and then compare it with the present value of real estate. There have been eight children. "I have never known the mother to have any help except the children. In a few days I received a letter from a woman who estimated I find to be the record of 30 years of mother's work: 23,420 meals served at 15 cents each . . . $351,375 31,393 garments made at 15 cents . . . 1,950.00

In Darkest Egypt

Position of the Women in Egypt Is Sad

Mr. G. N. Barnes, M.P., addressing the Downing Settlement Brotherhood on his recent tour in Egypt and Syria, said that the treatment of women in Egypt was the darkest phase of life in that country. The men of Egypt thought themselves superior to the women. He said: "In many houses," Mr. Barnes continued, "I never saw a woman and you can take it from me that the position of the women in Egypt is absolutely one of serfdom, and dependence. They spend their lives in miserable hovels, working in the adjoining fields, or in getting water. They are the serfs of the men, and as much beasts of burden as the donkey and the camel. A people which uses women folk in that way is destined to be a subject race, and does not deserve to govern."

The men who voiced the national movement were of the Effendi, or the lower middle class, and the movement was directed against the rule of the general public. If Egypt was to occupy a better status in the world economy must be extended to the whole Egyptian people.

Referring to Palestine, Mr. Barnes said his impression after visiting the country was that it would be to the benefit of everybody if the Jews were allowed to go back to that land, but it must be done without force and without any injury to the responsibilities of the Arabs.

Last Report on Great War

The part of the department of military and defence in the work of the war and demobilization between November 1, 1918, and October 31, 1919, has been reported to the House of Commons from that department, tabled in the House by Hon. Hugh Guthrie. This is the last of the memoranda to be tabled in respect to the European war and the details of demobilization are set forth fully.

Deaths is the punishment for housebreaking in Spain.

Work Done by Women On the Farm Has Not Been Appreciated

Some curious discoveries are being made as a result of the new place women are taking in the world of industry and politics; one of the most amazing being the fact that the census enumerators of the United States designate farm women as having no occupation.

This matter is fully discussed in the North American, of Philadelphia, and which says in part: "The fact that a woman is a human factor of the highest importance to the nation, in addition to the work she does, she bears more than half the children which keeps the world supplied with men and women. And she performs this service under conditions which, in many instances, should be changed by law if there is no other way to bring people to their senses. She works from dawn till dark without the thought of pay. She cooks, washes, irons, sweeps, sews, helps to plant and harvest, cares for her cows, washes for her own, and her neighbors sick and never has time for rest or recreation. She is the unpaid servant of the nation. Yet to one who has thought of her in terms of cash, she has no salary, no definite income, no fixed allowance by either husband or father. She works from the day she marries to the day she dies; often without a realization in dollars, she saves a single dream of her life. All this she does for the sake of getting things done and as she goes to bed at night assured of just one thing—that it will not be done over again tomorrow. What she cooked today is eaten by night. What she sewed today is ironed and ready for the tubs again by the end of the week."

Mr. Theobald V. Warner, in a recent issue of the "Banker-Farmer" says: "I asked a young man to sit down some night with his mother and place a financial estimate on the work she does during the thirty years of her married life and then compare it with the present value of real estate. There have been eight children. 'I have never known the mother to have any help except the children. In a few days I received a letter from a woman who estimated I find to be the record of 30 years of mother's work: 23,420 meals served at 15 cents each . . . $351,375 31,393 garments made at 15 cents . . . 1,950.00

Hard to Get Used to a Dollar That Is Worth Only Fifty Cents. It is hard to get used to a dollar that is worth only about fifty cents. Association and sentiment combine to persuade us that it is still a dollar when it ought to be trying his woad. He takes two of them to do that our thrift is offended. There is nothing for it but to get over that and see the inflated dollar as it is and let it go for what it is. If it can't buy what we need the simplest remedy is to send others to help it. If we have them. Otherwise to postpone the need. The most tempting use to put dollars to is to pay off debts incurred while they were still dollars. That is about the only way to be a before-the-war dollar's worth for a current dollar.—Life, New York.

Ex-Kaiser Missed His Vocation. William Hohenzollern, former emperor of Prussia, is trying his woad as a tailor, and is going to a Central News despatch from Amsterdam. He is cutting out patterns for many new suits while he is going to start his wardrobe, and the despatch quotes a trade paper as declaring he is "excelling."

"How unfortunate it is," says this paper, "that William missed his vocation. After all the notoriety he has achieved as an emperor, one can imagine what would have been his fame as a tailor."

Western Wool Crop. The wool crop of the western provinces based on last year's production is as follows—Manitoba, 30,000 lb.; Saskatchewan, 80,000 lb.; Alberta, 120,000 lb.; and British Columbia, 20,000 lb.

7,600 chickens at 25 cents . . .	1,915.00
427,752 eggs at 15 cents per dozen . . .	1,596.50
5,460 pounds of butter at 10 cents . . .	1,092.00
21,900 gallons of milk at 10 cents . . .	1,092.00
1,500 gallons of lard at 10 cents . . .	1,500.00
25,500 loaves of bread, at 10 cents . . .	3,550.00
5,500 values at 15 cents . . .	1,485.00
7,900 pies, at 10 cents . . .	796.00
1,525 bushels vegetables, at 30 cents . . .	762.50
362 1/2 jars of fruit at 25 cents . . .	906.25
1,550 quarts of fresh fruit at 10 cents . . .	550.00
177,725 pieces of laundry, at 3 cents . . .	5,331.75
35,640 hours spent in sweeping, washing, ironing and scrubbing at 10 cents . . .	3,564.00
Total . . .	$61,973.85
Present value of real estate . . .	$50,000.00
Difference . . .	$11,973.85

"I tried this test in another home where there were six children and the mother had been married twenty years; with the result that the work of this daughter and the other children amounted to $2,540 annually."

"Of course the financial basis for this calculation seems absurdly low, but in these times of inflated values. Eggs at 15 cents per dozen; butter at 20 cents per pound; milk at 10 cents per gallon; pies at ten cents each and sweeping, scrubbing and washing at 10 cents per hour read like a fairy tale."

"If the farm women of America can pile up cash values equal to the total land valuation of our country, while engaged in 'no occupation,' think what they might do for us and others if given a fair chance to occupy themselves at something better than what they are doing now, as they should be, amongst the great producers of the best kind of wealth."

Merchants Hit by Paper Shortage

Great Shortage of Paper Bags Is Now Reported

Ottawa.—There is a great shortage of paper bags at the present time due to the scarcity of white paper, and the demand for them will for some time to come be much in excess of the available supply.

"We are sixty to seventy million bags behind in our orders," said an official of the Continental Bag and Paper Co. of Montreal. "A delegation tied up for want of material." This company has found it impossible to secure sufficient paper to keep the machines running. The company makes paper boxes, bags and wrapping paper and is in receipt of hundreds of orders that cannot be filled. Grocers and other merchants who require wrapping paper and bags will be soon without any stock unless some unexpected source of supplies appears.

Plan Canadian at Vimy

The creation of a $500,000 Protestant fund for Vimy Ridge is an appeal to the Canadian soldiers who have been in a plan which is now being forwarded in Montreal. A delegation of protesting all of the Protestant churches of that city recently visited under General Currie and asked him approval and patronage in the movement. It was pointed out that as the church which was destroyed at Lens was a Presbyterian church it was felt that Canada should assume the responsibility of building one at the famous battle ground.

American Land Seekers

Dealers in western lands have estimated that 40,000 land seekers, 35,000 of whom will become settlers, will come from the United States the next three months. An invasion of 10,000 monthly for May, June, July and August is figured on from inquiries on hand and excursion arrangements made.

The Steer, The Profit And The Profiteer

Scarcely more than a fortnight passes between the time the steer is sold at the stockyards and the beef is cooked in the kitchen. Yet those who control the movement of the steer and its products for those two weeks get more for their time and trouble than did the farmer for keeping the cow a year before the steer was born and two years thereafter.—Kansas City Star.

ATLEE

Rejoice, for it is better spirit—since our spell of rainy weather. We all hope to see plenty more to insure a good yield.

H. Fink, Supt. for the Alberta Pacific Elevator, and two other travellers passed through our burg yesterday on their way to Empress. They returned today for the West.

G. Hough, expects to leave Atlee for Eastern points, Wednesday.

C. E. Hovey expects to harvest a good crop of fall rye. Sure seems good to see the waving grain.

Picnics are again in order. This is the month for picnics and brides still the bachelors keep looking for rain. It may rain brides in some parts but never in this part.

Chas. Hough, is plowing for Earl Hay, east of town. Plowing is some better, but more rain would be acceptable.

S. Sylvester, left Atlee today, for Calgary. He has been doing some briek farming with his steam plow outfit.

For their annual picnic this year, Atlee local U.F.A. are co-operating with Lovedale local on the north side of the river and the date is June 24th. Six delegates, three from each local, met at the Atlee ferry to arrange details and it was decided to hold the picnic among the trees by the ferry. Twenty men, ten from each local will be on the grounds Wednesday to "fix up" and build the bowery.

Ten loads of lumber and supplies will leave Atlee tomorrow. The first load to start the ball rolling was taken out today by S. J. S. Read. This is to be the largest and best co-operative social gathering in the history of Atlee. Lunch will be served from five to seven p. m. by the Atlee U. F. W. A.

SOCIAL PLAINS

Everyone is talking about the "Big Rain" and wearing a happy expression on their face. The rain meant a great deal and among other things it meant that we would have a picnic.

July 23rd is the date of the Social Plains Picnic and those who miss it will have only themselves to blame.

An aeroplane is to be one of the attractions at the picnic this year and it is hoped that the public will give this their support. Mr. E. A. Tucker is writing ball insurance (you can have your choice of three, good companies) and the agents commission goes to help pay the cost of the aeroplane.

The last U.F.A. meeting was poorly attended. The Secretary did not show up, being sick in bed. Here is hoping for better luck on Saturday evening, June 26.

President H. W. Woods is to speak at Social Plains in the afternoon of July 7. Let us all turn out as we will surely be the gainers by doing so.

Arrangements are being made for a brass band at the picnic, so this will likely be referred to as "the year of the big picnic."

Frank Lyons is back in this part of the country. (continued on next page)

 Mr. Marvin, and family, are living on the Lyon's place.
 One of Mr. P. O. Phillips' pigs fell under the disc and had his leg badly cut, he is doing quite well, and his ticks are very thankful that it was no worse.

Bonnie Brier
 (Too late for last week)
 They say that "Brig is a good dog, but Hold-fast is a better one". Sometimes it is much easier to be the former.
 Bonnie Brier U. F. A. held its regular meeting June 2nd, at the school, on the eve of the Convention at Empress. A large crowd attended and Mr. Wood, our president, being present, the regular business was dispensed with. Mr. Wood gave a very interesting address on Group Organization, after which he answered many questions of interest to the farmers. A musical program followed.
 We are expecting Pres. Wood again at Bonnie Brier about July 2nd. All who had the good fortune of meeting Mr. Wood when he was here, are looking forward to that date with interest. No one should miss this opportunity of hearing him. He will be here both afternoon and evening. Supper at the school at six o'clock, so bring along your lunch baskets and come for a good time.
 Bonnie Brier sent a full delgation of six U.F.A., one U.F.W.A. delegates to the Convention. Many visitors from here attended. All report the Convention a success in every way and were much pleased with Empress and Empress people.

 The U.F.W.A. will hold a meeting at the school, Wednesday evening, June 19th.
 A series of dances will be given during the summer in Mr. Gahagan's big barn, the first coming July 19th. Bonnie Brier Orchestra will furnish the music. Be prepared to come and have some good times. There will be plenty of room and a good floor. Ladies bring lunch.
 Several from Bonnie Brier attended the Entertainment and Dance given as a reception to the Brides in the Acadia Valley district, at Acadia Hall, Friday evening. An excellent program was given and all report a good time. Fourteen Brides' Horrah! for "Paradise Valley."
 We were very much shocked to learn of Mr. McGhee's accident, coming as it did, so soon after the Convention where he took such an active part. We are very pleased to learn that he is doing nicely and hope to hear of his complete recovery in the near future.

Pay Cash When Possible

It may not be generally known but it is a fact that at the present time the wholesalers and jobbers are unable to get anything like their usual amount of credit from the banks to carry on business. This in turn will reflect on the retailer throughout the country who has to get credit from the wholesaler. This is necessitating a certain amount of tightening up of money on the part of both the wholesaler and retailer. The public can save the situation by keeping their account paid up and paying cash whenever possible.—Ex.

G. Hatch, of the John Martin Paper Co., who has been traveling South Alberta in auto, considered the crops in our south district much better than any he had seen on his trip.

"Are you feelin' some better, Ma?" he inquired gently.

"Yes, Boy, better. 'I'll soon be well."

He understood, and he held her to his hand, stretched out to him, in both his own.

"You're not quite as well as you was this mornin'," he said, hesitatingly. "I guess I know the reason."

She did not reply, but lay with her eyes closed, and Boy saw tears streaming down the white cheeks. He spoke fiercely.

"He threatened as he'd do it, and he did—"

He checked himself, biting the words off with a click of his white teeth.

"I know just what he told you, Ma. I know all he told you, and he didn't lie none. I haven't been to his school and I can't go to his school. I've tried my best to stay 'cause I knowed you wanted me to. But I go wild. I can't stay still inside like that and be in prison. It chokes me, it kills me. I don't want no learnin' and nothin' I have. I can read and write and figure. You taught me that, and I have learned from you 'cause 'cause—"

His voice faltered and feebly the mother drew him down beside her on the bed.

"Poor old Boy," she soothed tenderly, smoothing the dark curls back from his forehead; then sorrowfully, "I wonder why you should hate that for which so many people are striving?"

"Don't ma — don't speak about it. You know we talked it over before. You didn't enlighten me, you remember. I don't want enlightenment. I hate it. I'll fight it away from me, and I'll have to fight it away from me."

He shuddered, and she held him tight in her weak arms.

"Dear Boy," she said, "it will be a useless struggle. You can't hope to hold your little world. Now go, and God bless you. Kiss me goodnight, Boy."

He bent and kissed her on the forehead, then springing up crossed the road, then he halted.

"Yes, ma," he said gaily, in response to her call.

"Did you meet the teacher?"

"One moment he vacillated between love and truth. Once he had decided, he usedlessly, to save her. But he hated a liar. He went back to the bed slowly."

"Yes, I met him, and I told him that he best be leavin' these parts."

Her eyes rested upon him in mingled love and wonder.

"I don't like — I don't trust that man," said the mother earnestly.

"Now go, Boy, and God bless you."

When Boy awoke the next morning the tea and meat were gone cold. He smiled at the girl, who was standing beside the fireplace, and she said, teasingly:

"I told you better not go."

The man with the fiddle across his knees straightened up at her words, and he looked over at Boy with puzzled expression on his face.

"Thought maybe you'd joined a flock of woodcock and gone south," he remarked. "Wonder you can leave the bush long enough to get your meals. Where've you been, Boy?"

"Nowhere much," answered the boy, looking hard at his plate.

"Well he had that teacher chap over again tonight," said the father, "smart feller that."

Boy glanced up quickly and caught a gleam of humor in the speaker's eyes. Then he looked at the girl. She was laughing quietly.

"The teacher says that you've been absentin' yourself from school," went on the mother. "I asked him if absentin' was a regular habit in scholars same as swappin' jackknives, and he gave me."

"It's a punishable offence," she told him. "I don't mind you whaling Boy some," says I, 'I'm sure he needs it."

"I'll not won't a big boy like him," he said to himself. "I don't want to."

"Well I don't know as I thank you for not wantin' to," says I. "Boy's some handy with his fists, bein' a graduate in boxin' of long Bill Paisley's."

The big man stood up and stretched his six-foot two figure with enjoyment. In his huge fist the cord fiddle looked like a hand mirror. He threw back his shaggy head and laughed so loudly that the burning log in the fireplace broke in twain and threw a shower of red and golden sparks up the white chimney.

"When we were takin' and I was cassin' the vittles to set up to supper and make himself at home, when should drop in but Bill Paisley himself. Gosh, it was fun to see how he took in the teacher. 'Nix night, says Bill, bowin' low and liftin' off his cap. I shook my head at him, but he didn't pay any attention, so I went on eatin' and let 'em alone. Bill got into his pipe and felt in all his pockets, keepin' his eyes right on the teacher and grin like a foolin' I near choked on a pork-rind."

"Would you mind obligein' me with a pipel of Canada-Green?" he asked. "I suppose you have a plug of twist in your pocket, say?"

"The teacher frowned at him. 'I don't smoke Canada-Green,' says he, short and crisp-like."

"Chaw, maybe?" grinned Bill, puttin' his pipe away and flickin' his

"No, nor chaw — as you call it!"

"Dear me," sighed Bill, and after a while he says, 'Dear me' again. Boy and by Paisley limbered up and told the teacher he was right down glad to meet a man fearless enough to come to this wild place in the cause of learnin'."

"You're a martyr, say," says Bill. "I brave man, to come where so many dangers beset the path. Swamp fevers, and snake bites, and the cold that shakes your front teeth between your back teeth are now and your back teeth where your front ones should be. That are blue makes it so, these parts," says Bill, "that have got to use bilin' injuries they never miss a stroke, and they'll travel miles to get a whack at a white man, particularly a stranger, say he. 'Then there beolves here big as two-year-olds, and I'll have to fight 'em for hungry when the winter sets in."

"The teacher quivered. 'I'll get used to all that,' says he. 'But 'sure,' agreed Bill, 'but just to save it's a good thing you're a brave and a husky chap. Met any of our injuns yet?"

"A few," said the young feller, looking scared.

"Injuns are mighty queer reptiles," says Bill, "but you'll get along with 'em all right if you humer 'em with presents and attend their pow-wows. Might be a good idea to let on there's Injun blood in you. But whatever you do if you should happen to have a little nigger blood in you, don't tell 'em. Injuns naturally hate niggers."

"But got up and went in to say 'howdy' to ma. 'She wants to see you mister, he says to the teacher, when he came out. 'I suppose you've learned among other things, there's such a thing as talkin' too much, so be careful."

"When Bill went away Gloss and I went down and listened to what Simpson and your ma had to say to each other. He told her all about you stayin' away from school and a lot of things that seemed to worry her. I thought it queer, 'cause ever since he has been comin' across here we've tried to make him feel at home, but I just put it down that he had it in for you, Boy, some sort of account or other."

Boy glanced at the girl and her eyes fell.

"If it hadn't been our own house, I would have thrown him out," McTavish declared.

"I met him down by the creek as I was comin' home," said Boy absently. "I told him he'd best be leavin' these parts."

"The girl covered over and leaned across the table toward him.

"Boy," she said, "do you think he will go?"

"He's quick," he said quickly. "Then he'll go."

MRS. M. MAGNANT GIVES THE CREDIT TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Her Back Ached and She Was Always Tired, But She States She Found The Relief She Longed For in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Louis, Mo., June 7.—(Special.)—"Thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Mrs. M. Magnant, a well known and highly respected resident of this place. Mrs. Magnant was one of the many women who have been cured of their kidney troubles by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My back ached," she says, "and I felt so tired all the time." But she said Dodd's Kidney Pills were the cause of her recovery.

"I was overworked and overtaxed, and my back ached, and I felt so tired all the time. But she said Dodd's Kidney Pills were the cause of her recovery."

Other women in all parts of Canada make the same statement. They are weighed down with weakness, and pain, and found the relief they longed for in Dodd's Kidney Pills. For such kidneys are the cause of the great majority of the ills from which women suffer.

"Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not help such ailments."

Fits Not for Disarmament

The Simple Way of Guaranteeing Peace of the World

At the Camp yard, Philadelphia, says Chas M. Schwab, the United States is building the biggest warship in the world.

"The ship is 1,000 feet long, 104 feet beam, and of 60,000 tons displacement. Twelve big guns will constitute its main armament, and its speed will be greater by ten miles an hour than that of the Lusitania. The construction will cost $50,000,000."

Mr. Schwab looks forward to the building of a flotilla of such vessels.

"And the words in which he predicts and justifies the enormous and huge battleships have an ominous familiar ring. We have heard them before; we have heard them, if our memories fail not, long before the war. They were dinned into us for decades, until they had become by heart, and knew the cause of the arguments would fall."

"The building of enough of these ships," says Mr. Schwab, "will be a simple way of maintaining peace with the world. Not that the fighting men desire peace, but because of the fact that when we have such a formidable armament it is not likely that any country will take upon itself to encroach upon our rights. These new ships will be no more powerful than the old ones, and they will be for the protection of the great United States of America."

So the war was a dream; it never happened. The war was a dream; it never happened. The war was a dream; it never happened.

France, Russia and Germany, all prepared for hostilities, were naturally afraid to start anything, or we certainly should have seen some fighting in 1914 and later. But let Mr. Schwab take a look at Europe and tell us why things are as they are on that unhappy continent. Let him tell us, too, after looking into conditions, whether it seems to him more necessary to put our superfluous effort into rehabilitating the crushed and shattered systems of our neighbors or to get ready for war against them. Surely there are some forms of silliness we have earned the right to forget.—New York Globe.

Canada's Import Trade

Doing Large Business With Germany And Austria

Information was recently given by the government in the house of commons regarding Canada's trade with her late enemies. It was stated that the total amount of imports from Germany and Austria during 1915 was less than one quarter of the total amount of imports during the first three months of 1920. During the year 1919 goods to the value of $14,041 were imported from Germany and to the value of $779 from Austria. During the first three months of 1920 Canada imported goods to the value of $30,233 from Germany, and to the value of $48,944 from Austria.

Free Speech In America and Russia

What Is Right In Russia Seems To Be Wrong in United States

States

"What is right for me is wrong for you," argues the child. Primitive man argued that way, and to the limit of his ability enforced his argument with a club. Fanatics of all stripes still continue the argument, and they translate it, if they gain power, into law. The absolute suppression of free speech, free press, and free assembly in Russia is revolutionary virtue; the punishment of outright action in America is vicious reactionism. All the pro-Bolshevik writers and speakers are agreed; and though the more pretentiously virtuous exponents of uplift by usurpation cloak their meaning with euphemisms, the more straight-forward advocates disdain the use of veiled words. On the front page of the Appeal to Reason for April 17 is an interview with Eugene V. Debs in which the argument is stated in plain terms. "It is right," Debs was asked, "for Russia to suppress free speech and free press, but not also for the United States to suppress free speech in your case during the war?" "No," replied Debs. "The Russian revolution was a forward step. American participation in the war was a reactionary step. In suppressing me, because I was a revolutionist, a backward step was taken. No, infinite anarchy—what you will; but how honorably this speech contrasts with the intellect of the Russian revolution."

Gems of Advice To Farmers From The East

A prominent "Farm" publication arriving from the east has these gems of advice to farmers.

"To be healthy one should spend the maximum of time in the open air every day without fail."

"Exercise enough to keep the muscles from getting soft and flabby."

"A heavy dinner in the middle of the day is inadvisable, as one may become sluggish later and be unable to concentrate on details requiring close attention."

"Live near to nature; take an interest in things out-of-doors; it provides a splendid tonic for the nerves."
